

Join us at ISTE 2010 and...

Reach new heights in educational technology!

The International Society for Technology in Education's 31st annual conference and exposition* is held this year in beautiful Denver, Colorado. ISTE 2010 is the premier international ed tech conference—a place for transformational learning and networking opportunities that will change your life!

● Set your sights on the Rocky Mountains

ISTE 2010 will expand your knowledge and enlighten your thinking like no other four-day event!

- Hundreds of hands-on activities, including Bring Your Own Laptop sessions (BYOL), Open Source labs, Interactive Video Conferencing (IVC), and workshops
- Playgrounds, Posters, Student Showcases, and Hot Topic Lounges
- Thought-provoking keynotes, conversations, and myriad Web 2.0 venues in which you can learn, share, and collaborate!

● Boulders (not nuggets!) of information

A conference and exposition with something for everyone, no matter what your job title is:

- Administrator and Policy Maker
- K–12 Teacher
- Library Media Specialist
- Teacher Educator
- Technology Coordinator or Staff Developer

● An amazing exposition hall

Our post-conference survey reflects how valuable our ed tech showcase is to attendees. Not only is it one of the biggest expositions of its kind in the world, it consistently attracts the highest-ranking companies in the field. More than 60% of our attendees spend at least seven hours visiting and surveying what our exhibitors have to offer!

* Formerly known as the National Educational Computing Conference (NECC).

www.iste.org

● Staying connected

We've launched even more ways for you to stay connected before, during, and after the conference:

- ISTE Connects—The blog that keeps you updated on what's happening in ed tech around the world.
- ISTEvision—New in 2009, our ISTEvision network is a portal to tons of great sessions and resources captured during the conference, and amazing videos submitted by our inspirational members/attendees.
- Second Life—Establishing lasting friendships, networking opportunities, and great professional development opportunities in the virtual world.
- Twitter feeds, Facebook pages, and the ISTE Community Ning—Join one or all!
- ISTE 2010 website—Conference “nuts and bolts” including online registration, program search, and exhibit hall information.

● Conference first-timers

You'll arrive with curiosity, and leave as converts!

At NECC 2009,
I thought I'd learn new and exciting ways to use Web 2.0 tools with my students. Instead, I received something more valuable—the gift of time spent shoulder-to-shoulder with some of the best and brightest educators.

I would love to attend the conference again!

—Keisa Williams of Oakland, CA,
as quoted in School Library Journal

● Engage year-round as an ISTE member

Your full conference registration fee includes ISTE membership and:

- Free membership in ISTE's Special Interest Groups—you choose your level of involvement
- Networking with 20,000 others in the organization that developed the National Educational Technology Standards (NETS)
- The ongoing ability to collaborate with others who are passionate about using technology to make a difference in their students' lives
- Discounts on ISTE books and webinars that will further your professional development

Important Dates

Register Online Now!

October 7

Call for Participation closes

November 4

Housing reservations open

March 31

Super Early-Bird prices end

ISTE members $207

Non-members $299

(includes membership)

ISTE 2010 is hosted in cooperation with Technology in Education (TIE) Colorado.

For more information, visit www.iste.org